

UNISON

union
for

ambulance control room staff

Control room staff join UNISON because we deliver for them. UNISON is the largest and best organised trade union for ambulance staff in the NHS.

Many of our reps are control room staff just like you and know first-hand the issues you face and the support you need from your trade union. UNISON is:

- continuing to campaign hard for trusts and the government to tackle staff shortages and take some of the pressure off existing staff. Being the first point of contact for the ambulance service is a critical role that requires you to stay calm and confident – we know how hard that is when there aren't enough staff to do the job
- keeping the issue of your mental health right at the top of the agenda – working with NHS employers and ambulance employers to create an online hub (Head First) which offers lots of support to help you protect your mental health

- pushing for proper career development in the ambulance service that will allow you to expand your knowledge and undertake new training to develop your skills.

Our members shape the agenda for ambulance staff. Your concerns are our concerns. Join UNISON and add your voice to ours. Be part of the union that gets results.
